

AIA NEW JERSEY MAYORS SYMPOSIUM

Hosted by AIA New Jersey

Tuesday, March 24, 2020

9:30 am – 12:30 pm

Holmdel Municipal Recreation Room, Bell Works Building

101 Crawfords Corner Road, Holmdel, NJ

Design thinking can solve your city's biggest problems. Architects are trained to be creative problem solvers. They are uniquely positioned to explore the big picture while also attending to the details. This allows them to develop solutions to a wide range of issues your community faces, including:

- Resilience
- Housing Shortages
- Abandoned Buildings
- Building Inclusivity
- Traffic and Infrastructure
- Disaster Assistance

Would you like to collaborate with an architect on a specific project or begin a conversation about how architects can benefit your city? If so, please attend this free symposium at the Holmdel Municipal Recreation Room in the Bell Works Building in Holmdel. We will be talking about how architects can help with revitalizing public libraries and disaster assistance, as well as conducting a brainstorming session to focus on your particular needs.

Each mayor is encouraged to bring up to 3 guests from their city to the symposium. Suggested guests include the deputy mayor, a representative from the public works department, someone from the planning board, a council person, and so forth.
